

Marcello Annicchiarico

Product Engineer | Agentic Workflows & System Architecture

For the past decade, I've focused on turning complex business needs into fast, scalable software that users love. As a product engineer, I bridge the gap between technical architecture and seamless user experience—leveraging TypeScript, modern backends, and AI workflows to ship reliable, high-impact features quickly. I care deeply about product quality, well-typed code, and building intuitive UIs that make complex systems feel simple and effortless.
